Top Gear down under!

Clarkson and May show Oz how it's done!

IT SEEMS that Australia's habit of losing in cricket is spreading to another sport – in this case, car football! At least that's going by the drubbing that the England team gave them in their Reliant Robins at last week's Top Gear Festival in Sydney, while F1 driver Mark Webber also turned up to do some doughnuts in his Red Bull.

With Richard Hammond at another Top Gear event in Moscow, it was left to James and Jezza to fly the flag, along with The Stig, though what he made of Clarkson's stint in a kids' car is anyone's guess!

"I recommend sit-ups and cutting down on the carbs"

WEBBER AND JEZZA!
Red Bull Formula One driver Mark Webber has a natter with Jeremy.

BE PREPARED!
Mark's Red Bull is given the all-important once-over before his stunt.

DOUGHNUT!
Later, Mark would break the course record, but first he does some doughnuts.

ON YOUR MARKS!
Jeremy gets ready to burn some rubber. On balance, we prefer the Red Bull.

AND THEY'RE OFF!
A Wacky Races-type challenge ensues. The course record stays intact.

LOSER!
Jezza uses sign language to explain to Captain Slow that he's just come second.

IT'S THE STIG!
The Stig checks out the course as he prepares to take his Lotus for a spin.

PREPARING FOR ACTION!
Jezza gets helmeted up before leading England to victory at car football!

Funtime Frankie!

The lovely Ms Essex is a sunny delight!

IT'S OFFICIALLY the longest winter on record* with night still closing in at about 3pm and blizzards wiping out half the country. So much for the change in seasons.

Happily, there's a bright side to our so-called "spring" – Frankie Essex jetting off to sunny Spain to lounge about in a bikini and generally look ravishing.

While Frankie's holiday outfit is enough to bring out any red-blooded male in a warm glow, the sight of her cupping her bikini-free boobs may give us a serious case of sunstroke. Phew!

Dead Island: Riptide – first play!

The zombie apocalypse is here. And it's fun!

THE LATEST part of the Dead Island franchise picks up where the last game ended, with the survivors thinking they've escaped the zombies on a ship. Big mistake!

During a storm, the virus spreads to the crew and the survivors once again have to battle the undead.

With versatility at its core (you get to make nasty customised weapons), this will satisfy your creative urges as much as your lust for wasting the living dead.

- Dead Island: Riptide is out on all formats on 28 April. Pre-order for access to exclusive in-game goodies.

Nuts meets 'The Troll Hunter'!

Footballer-turned-boxer Curtis Woodhouse on confronting his Twitter troll!

FOR ANYONE who uses Twitter, "trolling" – or online abuse – is a fact of life, especially if you have some sort of public profile. But when ex-Sheffield United star-turned-boxer Curtis Woodhouse started getting threats from one user, he decided to take matters into his own hands.

Hi Curtis! How did the whole Twitter troll thing start?
It started about six months ago when the guy started tweeting me and sending me abusive messages. First of all they were along the lines of, "You're a shit footballer and shit boxer," but then they became more abusive towards me and my family. I'd had enough.

How did you find out where he lived?
I put a Twitter bounty on his head! I offered £1,000 to anyone on who had any information about this guy and what his name was. Two minutes later, I got everything I needed – from one of his friends! He turned down the reward so I saved myself a few quid there as well.

So you decided to pay him a visit? Would you have biffed him on the hooter?
The plan was just to let him know that I wouldn't be putting up with it any more.

What happened when you turned up? Did you actually knock on his front door?
No, the guy who gave me the information wouldn't give me the door number. I think he was scared for his mate's safety! So I just had the name of the road.

It was hilarious – the closer you got to his road, the more he tweeted his apologies! You finally met him on a TV show – what did he have to say?
Not much. He said he was sorry for what he'd done and he felt a bit of an idiot. To him this whole thing was probably a bit of harmless fun, but when you're on the other end of it and you've got kids, it's not very nice.

You seem to have gained a lot of respect for what you did.
Yeah, the response has been great. I think it's because a lot of people who get abuse have thought to themselves that they'd like to go and knock on the doors of these trolls. That's why it's been so positive – because I was prepared to stand up to him.

Do you think your profile has been raised by this? Will it help your boxing career?
That wasn't really on my mind when I went round there, but I guess it could help.

What made you give up football and go into boxing?
I'd completely fallen out of love with football. The game had changed so much from when I first got in to it that I decided to make the change. I chose boxing as it was something I truly loved.

What are your goals in boxing?
My main goal is to become a British champion. That's what I'm working towards at the moment so hopefully I'll get there in the end!

- Curtis is promoted by Coldwell Boxing. For updates follow @davidcoldwell and @WoodhouseCurtis – just don't troll him!

Mmm, possum!

Hungry python makes a meal of marsupial

IT'S NOT just humans who are too lazy to make something proper to eat for their dinner. Snakes like fast food, too – in this case a tasty ringtail possum, which was wolfed down by an eyes-bigger-than-his-stomach python in New South Wales, Australia.

The unlucky possum not only came off second best to the ravenous reptile, but also had the indignity of hanging around in mid-air while he was digested. Not the best way to go out.

- TechArt got even geekier on the Carrera's undergarments by developing a "noselift" system. This is not a Beverly Hills surgical procedure, but a clever hydraulic suspension tweak to lift front ride height by 6cm if you need to drive over a pesky speed hump.
- Despite looking tough, TechArt's front spoiler was made to earn its keep. When you mash the throttle above 87mph, it reduces lift on the Porsche's front axle and helps keep the car glued down. The rear spoiler/diffuser combo does the same from 87mph up to the 4S's top speed of 185mph. The rear-mounted 3.8-litre flat-six can push it from 0-62mph in 4.5 seconds, by the way.

Fellow Deutschlanders TechArt liked what they saw, but couldn't resist measuring one up for a freshly tailored bodykit that ups the price to £135,000 but also adds 76kg of downforce – pretty handy when storming up the Autobahns.

The world's greatest phone!

No doubt about it, the brand new Samsung Galaxy S4 kicks the iPhone's botty!

IT COULD well be squeaky-bum time at Apple HQ after the launch of Samsung's most advanced mobile phone yet, the Galaxy S4. Available from 26 April, the S4 boasts a set of features unheard of on previous handsets, including a 13.0 megapixel camera, 2GB of RAM (the same amount of memory as some computers) and "Smart Pause" which senses when you're not looking at the screen!

What will Apple come up with as their riposte? Judging by rumours, we'll see a new iPhone 5S in the summer. Can't wait!

The Samsung S4 runs on the latest incarnation of Google's Android mobile operating system. It also has a new version of Samsung's TouchWiz user interface to enable users to navigate around the phone.

IT'S COMPACT!

The Galaxy S4 boasts a 5.0in screen and weighs in at just 130g. It's really thin, too – just 7.99mm. Unbelievable when you consider the tech that's crammed inside.

COOL CAMERAS!

The "Dual Camera" allows the user to take photographs and video simultaneously from both front and back cameras. The resulting snaps can then be blended into one image.

DON'T TOUCH!

Look for "Air View", which lets you preview a document without touching the screen – you simply hover your finger over it and the email or photo pops up!

THE MOST anticipated sequel in sci-fi, Star Trek: Into Darkness, is coming – and Nuts has been given an exclusive preview.

Directed by JJ Abrams, the movie opens with a breakneck chase as Kirk (Chris Pine) and Bones (Karl Urban) flee a hostile planet. The action then shifts to a future London under attack by mysterious baddie John Harrison (Benedict Cumberbatch). The sparks really fly, though, when Captain Jim and Harrison face off...

And the really good news? The film opens in UK cinemas on 9 May – a full week earlier than the US!

'I tried to keep a poker face, but inside I was crying!'

Flaming chip pan horror strips skin off a student's hand!

➔ NUTS*-READING student Ahmed Awad was about to cook himself some chips when it all went a bit wrong. "I turned the chip pan on and left the room for two minutes," he says. "I was sitting in the lounge with my flatmates when the fire alarm went off."

The 26-year-old from Dundee raced back into the kitchen to find the chip pan on fire. He says, "I panicked and picked up the flaming chip pan, badly burning my hand!"

Ahmed doused the flames with a wet towel but ended up with massive blisters all over his hand. "The burns unit told me the blisters should be popped and the damaged skin cut away. During this, I tried to keep a poker face for my girlfriend's sake, but I was crying on the inside!"

Ahmed had to go back to hospital every two days for a fortnight so his wounds could be cleaned. Try crisps next time you get the munchies, Ahmed. Or maybe ice cream!

SEX ADVICE FROM A FIT LESBIAN!

Because she knows what she's doing and we don't!

KEEP UP WITH DANNI ON THE NET!

She's leaving!

The girl I'm seeing at uni wants to take a year out and go travelling. She says we can still be together, but I'm sceptical. Whenever I try to discuss the practical elements, like sex, she gets really dismissive. I love her, but should I end it?
JON via email

You're correct, the relationship will probably fade out. It's fantastic that she wishes to explore and supporting her is important. Explain the reality. If it's meant to be then perhaps you'll reunite one day. Suggest she keeps a diary – this way, if you meet up again you won't have missed a day without her.

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

Her parents drive me potty!

My girlfriend lives with her parents and we spend a lot of time there, but they seem to hate me. They're very cold and make me feel uncomfortable to the point that I don't like spending time there. How can I show them I'm OK?
FLETCH Manchester

Time is your answer in this situation. Kill them with sincere, warm-hearted compliments and good manners. Help your girlfriend with her career or a hobby. You'll earn their trust and her independence which, in the long run, will earn you lots of sex!

I kissed my dad's missus!

My dad's 50-odd but has started seeing a 25-year-old girl. I got off with her one Friday night while he was at the pub. It was just a kiss, but I'm worried about it happening again. Should I come clean?
ANON via email

Yes. No one should disturb the relationship between father and son and this is what she's doing. The fact she has seduced both of you shows a lack of respect. Plus, I don't think you'll want to have sex with her once you remember where she has been before.

- If you've got something to ask Danni, just email her at thelesbian@nutsmagazine.co.uk or write to her at the usual Nuts address on p64.

How can I get my kicks?

It was a bit much for a first date

JOKE OF THE WEEK!

What a choke!

TWO MEN are sitting at a bar when a young woman at a table nearby begins to choke on a hamburger. One of the blokes runs over, holds both sides of the young lady's head, and asks, "Can you swallow?"

Gasping, the young woman shakes her head. The man asks, "Can you breathe?"

Still gasping, the distressed young woman again shakes her head.

With that, the bloke yanks up her skirt, pulls down her knickers and licks her on the bum.

The young woman's so shocked that she coughs up the piece of hamburger and begins to breathe again.

The man sits back down with his friend and says, "You know, it's amazing how that hind-lick manoeuvre always works!"

Shop shock

A FRIEND of mine returned to England after living abroad for six years. On his first weekend back, I asked him what he wanted to do.

"Why don't we go to HMV so I can catch up on all the music I've missed, then head to Woolworths to grab some pick'n'mix, then stop off at Blockbuster to rent a film and head back to mine?" he said.

"Er, slight problem with that," I replied.

"What?" he said.

Hello Stacey Poole!

Gentlemen, behold! It's Barnsley's biggest boobs!

STACEY POOLE

STACEY POOLE

Hi Stacey! How are you settling into life as a bona fide Nuts babe?
I love it! It's been very exciting. Now, when I'm on a night out, blokes come up and ask me if they can buy me a drink!

Cool. Have you ever accidentally "popped out" in public?
Sometimes! I have to remember when I'm going on a shoot and when I'm going to my other job and mentally check myself to make sure I'm dressed suitably!

Are blonde or brunettes sexier?
Brunettes, definitely! You can get away with more as a brunette. You can either fade into the background, or you can take centre-stage. It's up to you!

What's the naughtiest thing you've done recently?
I went skinny-dipping with my girlfriends in Ibiza. That was quite naughty. We went on one of those booze cruises. There's always a good mix of boys and girls, and they're such a laugh.

What can a chap do to make himself irresistible to you?
I work in fashion, so clothes are important. I like guys who push the boundaries and don't wear what everyone else does.

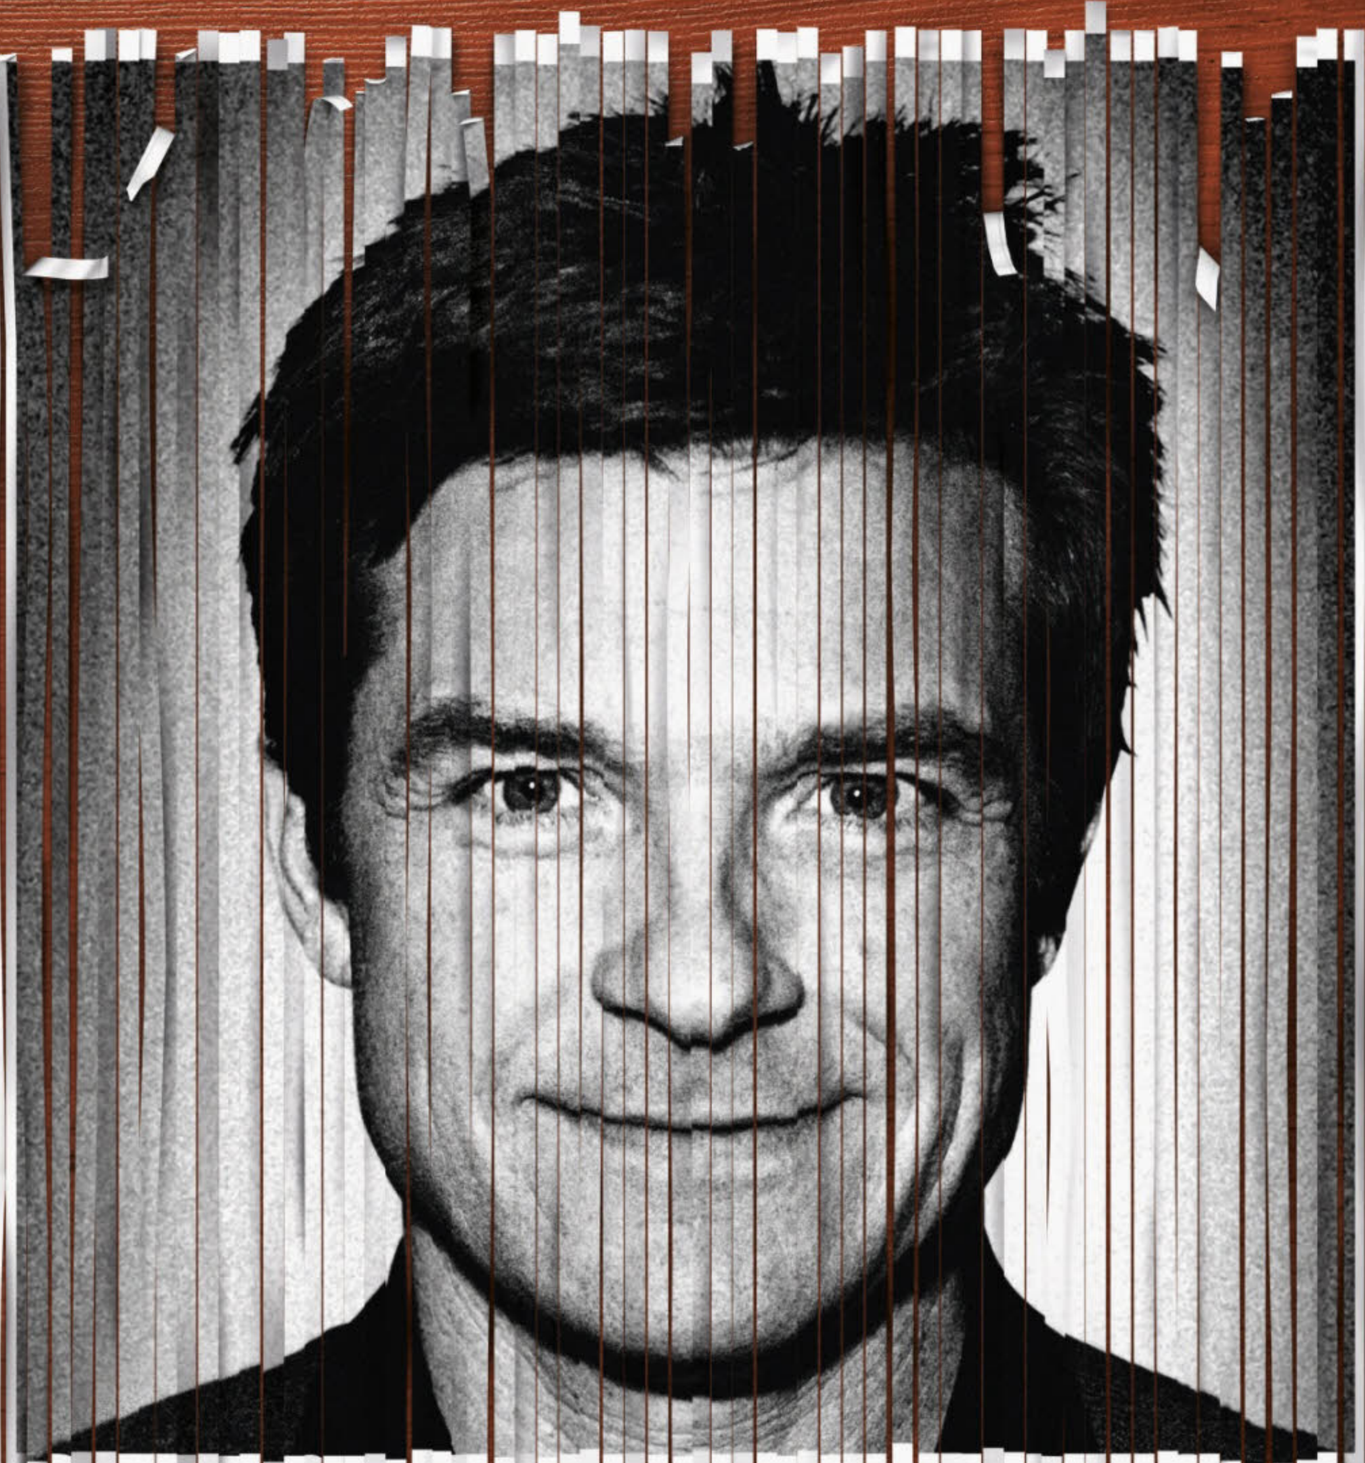
What's the biggest fashion faux pas for you?
Shorts and socks pulled up to the knees. Never do it! In fact, avoid those socks with big, gaudy patterns all over them.

Thanks for the heads-up. Made any plans for summer yet?
I'm going to Ibiza again for a blowout and then I'm off to Las Vegas. I also want to do something I haven't done before. Something daring and adventurous, like skydiving.

Awesome! Finally, then, if you could be our boss for a day, what would you do?
Easy! I'd arrange one massive, no-holds barred shoot and tell all the Nuts girls to do whatever they wanted! ✖

INTERVIEW: CHRIS SAUNDERS

“Brunettes are sexier – we can get away with more!”



Jason Bateman!

Hello Jason! We know you as "the straight man in the funny films". How do you keep from laughing?
You know, I just drive my fingernail into my hand. I make sure that I start a scene with my hands in my pockets, then you take this nail here [shows Nuts a sharp fingernail] and stick it into the top of the thumb and get distracted. That's the key. But at other times, you just let it go. Laughter is too rare nowadays.

For this new film – Identity Thief – you're sharing the bill with Melissa McCarthy from Bridesmaids. Is she as barmy as we'd expect?
At the premiere of Bridesmaids, I was as blown away by Melissa as everybody else on the planet. I thought, "She took a sh*t in a sink. She's the funniest thing in the world! Let's grab her before the movie gets released." So, I took her out for a quick meal, sweet talked her and had her sign something while she was passed out from the booze.

She's a hefty lass, and she wallops you quite a bit in the movie. Did that hurt?
Yeah, she looks so sweet, then she'll punch you in the throat. All of that tussling and wrestling was painful at times. I paid the bill with a couple of bloody noses. She hit me with a right hook, then a left, then grabbed her camera to take a photo of it!

You've sort of come out of nowhere to star in these big blockbusters, but weren't you something of a child star?
Yeah, I started acting when I was ten. My dad was a writer, director and producer and got me interested in acting. I was on TV for many years. I had a blast, I was making money...

Is it true you then went on a big bender for quite few years?
Yes, I did. There was a lot of drinking. I used to do the drinking and the snorting and the running around Hollywood. It was fun. Because I worked so much as a little kid, I wanted to catch up, and I made an effort to play hard. I had a smart plan: misbehave as much as possible before it's inappropriate to misbehave. But they were celebratory binges. I'm a hedonist, so it wasn't drowning sorrows. I drank myself into some interesting situations, knowing I wanted to look back having left no stone unturned. It was the greatest. No regrets. I got it all out of my system.

Fair enough! What sort of a "grown up" actor did you want to be?
I wanted to be Robert De Niro or Al Pacino. I thought I was going to be a dramatic actor, but comedy came first and I was like, "Maybe I'll find drama later on in my career."

"Ouch, I really thought he was going to catch that!"

Do you still enjoy the odd boozy night on the town?
I haven't drunk for ten years! It became a problem when I had to get up in the morning, I had to be an adult, and I had to dial it down. Now I watch home-improvement shows with my wife. It's awful.

Our sleuthing skills tell us this flick is about identity theft. Did you ever have a fake ID?
I did. I had several because I started young in the business and I started drinking pretty early. I made friends with the prop guys who make fake stuff for movies and, at 16, I would have them make a driving licence for me, right there on set.

You famously played a young wolf in '80s movie Teen Wolf Too. What do you think when you look back on that?
Ha! So many things made that film sh*t.

Would you have another stab it now that werewolves are back in fashion?
Teen Wolf 3 in 3D? That would be great. They did invite me to participate in the [Teen Wolf MTV] series, but I declined. Although I did meet those young guys in the show and they were very, very nice. They came up and said, "Hi" at the MTV Movie Awards.

Did you give them tips on how to be "wolfy"?
No, but we talked about the make-up process. Although chemicals these days are much less harmful to the skin. Back in my day, the make-up was taken off with turpentine.

Do you have a "Plan B" in case the work ever dries up again?
Yes, selling drugs. Let me know if you need anything.

Er, thanks! What can you tell us about Arrested Development, a show that's being revived this year?
It's addictive. It was written in a style that was very dense, and very fast and, if there's no laugh track, you really have to listen to discover what's funny, because the style of the humour on the show was very straight, very dry. There was no winking.

We loved Horrible Bosses. What was your favourite part about making it?
I guess that we were all a little sick enough to really enjoy all the twisted comedic parts of it. I don't remember a specific prank that somebody pulled, but there was a lot of gas. With three guys in a car, it's going to get warm.

Thanks for the chat, Jason. Finally, you always seem to play guys who get bullied. Are you developing a complex?
Ha-ha! No. As a kid, I got made fun of for being an actor. I was picked on. But I'm over it now. I have no tears left. I am 100 per cent happy with who I am and where I'm at.

So what really annoys you?
I get called Justin Bateman around three times a week. ✖

THE Instagram DICTATOR

Step inside the mad world of Chechnya's leader Ramzan Kadyrov – ex-rebel, animal lover, friend to the stars and tyrant

Kadyrov with political ally Russian president Vladimir Putin in 2004

IF YOU spent five minutes browsing the Instagram account of Chechen President Ramzan Kadyrov, you'd find snaps of him playfully petting farmyard animals and cosying up to celebrities such as Mike Tyson or Diego Maradona. What you probably wouldn't see are the grisly photos his henchmen took of a decapitated anti-government fighter, in an incident designed to send a clear message to his enemies. Such is the life of perhaps the most bizarre political leader on earth.

Right now, Kadyrov is trying to shake off the worldwide perception of him as a tyrant, a man whose forces make the few political opponents he has left disappear, before turning up dead a few weeks later, showing signs of torture. And the way he's doing this? Looking cute on Instagram.

The Chechen President's social networking habits are truly surreal, showcasing all the things Kadyrov loves – animals, guns, his family and Russian president Vladimir Putin (a supporter of Kadyrov's regime). In one picture, Kadyrov tenderly cups a newborn chick in his hands, while in another he playfully chases after one of the ostriches in his private zoo. Elsewhere, alongside pictures of Kadyrov with his children, sit pictures of Kadyrov polishing assault rifles, looking every inch the military man he used to be.

Kadyrov exhibits his extensive collection of weapons

The aftermath of a bomb attack on the Chechen parliament in 2010

Rise to power

KADYROV CAME to power in 2007, just a few months after his 30th birthday. His father Akhmad was President of the country until 2004, when he was assassinated six months into his presidency by a bomb. Chechen heads of state are bumped off with alarming regularity. Kadyrov Jr is doing rather better than his dad, having lasted six years in office and survived assassination attempts against him by Chechen separatists who believe Ramzan to be a "fake Muslim".

His messages to the Chechen people are certainly confusing . On the one hand, he professes to be bringing Muslim values back to the country and has imposed a form of Sharia law, supporting honour killings and the killing of both partners in an adulterous relationship. In addition, young women are not allowed to attend university or college unless they are wearing headscarves. Kadyrov has also banned gambling and even energy drinks on the grounds that they're "intoxicating and poisonous".

And yet in private he lives the life of a Western playboy. In addition to having his own zoo filled with exotic and dangerous animals, and a huge collection of guns and knives, Kadyrov has a motorcade of cars that would put most rap stars to shame, including one

Celebrity pals

FOR HIS 35th birthday party, Kadyrov welcomed as guests Hollywood stars Hilary Swank and Jean-Claude Van Damme, and paid Seal and violinist Vanessa Mae six figure sums to perform. However, the birthday boy threatened to fire any officials who gave him presents as he didn't want a fuss made of the day.

When asked where all the money came from for such star-studded events, Kadyrov responded, "Allah gives it to us!" and then qualified it with the rather mysterious, "We don't know where it comes from." The truth is, the money is coming from Putin's Russia, supposedly to turn the Chechen capital of Grozny into a Dubai-style luxury resort. If it happens to keep the land's leader in cars and guns, then so be it.

Understandably, there are those who are firmly against a leader who is pally with Vladimir Putin – who ordered an all-out assault on Chechnya in 1999 – but such people have a tendency to be snatched by Kadyrov's "security units" and taken to remote locations where they're beaten with clubs and tortured with electric shocks to the limbs and genitals. One agitator suspected of providing food to rebel fighters was taken from his home at night to a local ATC (Anti-Terrorism Centre). "They started out by kicking me," he told Human Rights Watch later, "and then brought an 'infernal machine' to give me electric shocks. They attached the wires to my toes and kept cranking the handle. I couldn't bear it. I was begging, 'Give me any papers, I'll sign it, I'll sign anything.'"

This is how Kadyrov hopes to bring stability to one of the most unstable regions in the world – systematic intimidation, or elimination, of any opposition. ✖

Ramzan the madman

- In 2006, mobile phone footage of a man who looked and sounded like Kadyrov, cavorting with two prostitutes in a sauna, became public. His office denounced it as a hoax intended to discredit him as a Muslim.
- In 2010, Kadyrov's stronghold of Tsenteroi was stormed by Islamist rebels, killing 19, destroying homes and seizing equipment. Kadyrov's response? To claim he'd "lured" the rebels into the attack. "We let them in so they couldn't escape," he said.
- In May 2011, Kadyrov staged an all-star football match in Grozny. Despite the visitors boasting Diego Maradona, Luis Figo, Fabien Barthez, Robbie Fowler and Steve McManaman, Kadyrov's team, with the overweight Kadyrov playing up front, won 5-2.

Lucy Collett

Hi Lucy! How is our favourite redhead at the moment? Ha-ha! Hello. I'm fantastic, thanks. It's great to be back doing another shoot for Nuts. Now that I'm doing the online games stuff for you guys, I feel like I'm part of the family. I love it!

We love you, too! Do you think redheads are ruder in general?
Definitely! We're not shy, that's for sure. I even get my boobs out on trains now, as anyone who follows me on Twitter would know. If I'm alone in the carriage, I just whip up my top and take a quick snap with my phone. It passes the time.

What never fails to drive you wild in the bedroom?
That's a very tough question for a girl to answer. Personally, I like big, tall men stroking my back. With nails. Though not too much of the nails – I don't want to be scarred for life.

What one bit of advice would you give a chap to improve his luck with the ladies?
Don't use cheesy chat-up lines – they don't work. Just walk up to a girl you like, say hello, and ask if you can buy her a drink. If she says no, leave her alone. We're not playing hard to get, no really means no! Also, shoes are important. You can tell a lot about someone by the shoes they wear.

Who's the fittest new Nuts babe you've encountered recently?
Jessica Davies. She's lovely, and such a sweet girl. She's very sexy, too, so I hope you get to see lots more of her in future.

If you could make a super babe using different parts of Nuts girls, who'd make up which part?
Great question! I'd have Lucy Pinder's boobs, Sabine's bum, Rosie Jones' torso, Holly Peers' face, Stacey Poole's tan and my hair, of course! ▶

> "Redheads aren't shy – I get my boobs out on trains!"

"I've got a crush on Rihanna. She's a natural woman!"

Beth Humphreys

Hello Beth! How are you enjoying the shoot?
It's going really well, thanks. I'm a student and I study economics and finance, so spending the day with all these lovely boobs everywhere is a bit different for me!

How can a chap impress you?
By loving animals and not wearing real fur. I'm not too bothered about what they look like, but they must be nice, kind and genuine. The problem with most guys is they try too hard, and end up pretending to be something they're not.

We love animals! Which is your favourite of all the beasts?
Cows! I could never eat one. I'm a vegetarian. I love fruit. Mangoes are my favourite. I'm quite a fruity girl!

Do you prefer a wild night out or a cosy night in?
Cosy night in, definitely! I love being snug, and eating takeaway food and watching good movies or Family Guy.

What's the last really great thing you saw on the box?
Jeremy Kyle. I usually watch him while I'm eating my Cheerios. I'm not a fan of Made In Chelsea, though. All those spoiled d*ckheads running around being posh – not my idea of entertainment!

Who's the sexiest Nuts babe?
India Reynolds or Lucy Pinder. I couldn't choose between them if you made me. But I've got a big crush on Rihanna. She's a natural woman, with all the right curves.

What's a winning move for you in the bedroom department?
I love having my back kissed. And I did a very private, sexy dance for someone once. That went down really well. ►

> “My life revolves around boobs, booze and boys!”

Jessica Davies

Hello Jessica! Welcome to Nuts! Can you introduce yourself to the readers, please?
Hello! I'm the blonde one, ha-ha! I'm 19 and a student from Aberystwyth. I'm the girl-next-door type, so I'm excited to be shooting for Nuts.

We love Welsh girls! What's your take on the The Valleys?
It's awful, but it's so bad it's good. I can't stop watching it. I was in Glam nightclub in Cardiff recently with a couple of girls from The Valleys, and things got a bit out of hand!

Are you a cosy night in or a raunchy night out kind of girl?
I'm a bit of both, but it depends on the company and what mood I'm in. When I go out, I tend to get very boisterous, but I like staying in, too, and having a good snuggle.

How could we blow you away on a first date?
Lots of wine would be a good start. I'm not fussy about where I drink – I'm quite easy-going and like having a laugh.

What sort of thing do you look for in a bloke?
I love Harry Styles from One Direction – he's my perfect man. I'm going to see them soon, and I can't wait. I love a good bit of pop music.

Who's your sexiest Nuts babe?
I have to say Lucy Collett. She looks amazing today.

Can you describe a typical day in the life of your boobs?
They just spend the whole time trying to escape from my bra!

What are your plans for 2013?
Well, my life revolves around what I call the "Three Bs" – boobs, booze and boys. I plan to get as much of the Three Bs as I possibly can! ▶

“I love Nuts shoots – they’re like sexy parties!”

Gracie Finlan

Hi Gracie! How's the shoot going? Fantastic, thanks – I've seen a lot of boobs today. I love Nuts shoots – they're like sexy parties!

How would you describe yourself to people?
Well, I'm 24 and originally from north London, although I live in Manchester now, which is a great party town. Also, I have a thing for monkeys!

What are you like on a night out?
I'm a bit of a lightweight – I tend to lose control after one drink, so a cosy night in under the covers wins every time.

What sort of a thing do you look for in a chap?
You must have something different about you, be exciting and have the ability to make me laugh. Plus, be very attentive. What girl doesn't like being waited on hand and foot?

What would your ideal Nuts shoot involve?
Me, of course, along with lots of boobs and curves. I like curves and my latest fetish is girl-on-girl. But I'm enjoying today's shoot – it's very naked!

Who's your sexiest Nuts babe?
It has to be Lucy Collett! She has everything in proportion. Outside of Nuts, Mila Kunis is beautiful. Brunettes win every time over blondes!

Can you describe a typical day in the life of your boobs?
It must be like a rollercoaster for them. They bounce everywhere, and have to go wherever I go.

What was the last really sexy thing you did for someone?
On Valentine's Day, I did the whole dressing up thing. I turned the bedroom into something off Moulin Rouge! ►

> “Rosie Jones is lush and has great boobs!”

Joey Fisher

Hello again, Joey! How are you?
I'm good! It's great to be here! I love that there's another Welsh girl – Jessica – on the shoot. I'm looking forward to seeing my boobs in the mag again!

How could a chap show you a great night out?
Sometimes a cosy night in is better. But a night out would have to be something memorable. Something a little more adventurous than a simple meal and a drink.

What would your ideal Nuts shoot involve?
I would love to do a shoot in Amsterdam. I love the buildings and the architecture there. Of course, there would also be lots of raunchy, edgy clothing involved.

Who's your favourite Nuts babe of all time?
Rosie Jones. She's lush! She's naturally gorgeous, and just has an incredible aura about her. She has great boobs, too!

Which female celebrity do you have a crush on at the moment?
I used to like Rihanna a lot, but she's gone down in my estimation recently with all her naughty antics in the papers.

Can you describe a typical day in the life of your boobs?
They just hang around! And sometimes pop out when I don't want them to!

Is there one trick that never fails to drive you wild in bed?
I love having my back tickled – it drives me crazy. But it has to be done sensually. Let's just say there was someone who had a very saucy surprise on Valentine's Day!

Do you have any hidden talents we should know about?
I can kiss my boobs and lick my own nipples!

Don't expect a happy ending as the case is one of America's most infamous unsolved crimes, but that doesn't make this any less gripping.

★★★

"Say hello to my little friend!"

Notorious

CHANNEL 4/HD • 12.40am

There won't be any huge surprises at the end of this music biopic – The Notorious B.I.G. still gets murdered – but this is a fairly rose-tinted version of his life. Produced by and starring Sean "P Diddy" Combs, it tells how Biggie went from dealing crack in Brooklyn to being a huge rapping success. The soundtrack is awesome.

★★★

Classic Telly?

SPEED

5* • 10PM

Pure brilliance as Keanu Reeves' fantastically wooden cop rides on a bus that mustn't drop below 50mph or a bomb will go off. A cheesy classic, also starring Sandra Bullock.

Sunday 24 March

The Mitchell Brothers weren't ageing well

Red

CHANNEL 4/HD • 9pm

John McClane and the Queen... No, wait! Bruce Willis and Helen Mirren are "retired and extremely dangerous" in a cool action caper about a retired CIA agent who gets the "old" team together when he discovers some very bad people have him in their crosshairs. Also starring Morgan Freeman and John Malkovich.

Assassins' Creed IV was the most realistic yet

In The Flesh

BBC THREE/HD • 10pm

Kieran is a "reanimated" zombie – he returned from the dead wanting to eat brains but, having been "treated", he can now pass as "living" again. Struggling to fit back into society, the outcast is reunited with his former best mate, who died in Afghanistan. Then he ends up on a hunting mission, chasing down rabid zombies.

"This is what happens when you don't tip room service, mate"

The Kill List

CHANNEL 4/HD • 11.15pm

Get ready for a ride to hell in a hitman horror flick following two contract killers taking on "one last job". Their employer's kill list, however, brings them face to face with the occult... Neil Maskell (Rise Of The Footsoldier) and Michael Smiley (from TV's Luther) are a darkly comic, ultra-violent pair in a truly scary film. Proper evil!

The Thundercats remake had a much harder edge

Grimm

WATCH/HD • 9pm

Grimm's back after its winter break with new episodes. The last time we saw detective/monster-hunter Nick Burkhardt, he was hunting down child-snatchers. As you do. Now it looks like there's a vigilante in town, doing Nick's work and taking out bad guys. Is another Grimm treading on Nicks toes or is he doing him a favour?

NEW SERIES!

"I'm more concerned with the bowl cut than the dress, to be honest"

Plebs

ITV2/HD • 10pm

Described as a modern comedy in an ancient setting, Plebs follows three desperate young chappies as they try to get laid, hold down jobs, and climb the social ladder in Ancient Rome. If The Inbetweeners and The Life Of Brian had a baby, this would be the result. Plebs is British humour at its best. Not to be missed!

Bomb Patrol

CHANNEL 5/HD • 12.20am

An incredibly tense episode of the sobering documentary as the US Navy bomb disposal team are four days into clearing a heavily mined road in northern Afghanistan. As if the danger at every turn wasn't enough, a Taliban triggerman then begins remotely detonating the mines and soon the team are parked on top of one...

Montenegro vs England

ITV/HD • 7.30pm

After last Friday's routine-looking match with San Marino, England's World Cup qualifying campaign gets serious. Montenegro may not be packed with household names, but England failed to beat them the last two times. This won't be easy.

New Girl

E4/HD • 9pm

Yes, this is a sitcom primarily aimed at women, but it has loads of bits that'll make blokes laugh too, so it's totally acceptable to watch. Not forgetting super babe Hannah Simone who plays Cece. In this season two opener, the brilliant Schmidt throws a party and Jess has just been fired from her teaching job.

Youngers

E4/HD • 7.30pm

This quality new youth drama following teenage kids off an estate is excellent. Best mates Jay and Yemi have made it to Mic Star – their chance of getting some cred as the next big thing – but the audience does nothing to settle their fears. On the positive side, Jay might be getting some female attention from Davina.

Breaking Magic

DISCOVERY/HD • 8pm

Wow, telly types really do like their magicians at the moment, don't they? After the success of Dynamo and that baldy Goodwin bloke (see below), Discovery have decided to conjure up their own magic show. The added twist this time, though, is that the tricks are all proper scientifically explained. Sounds ace!

This cop-based thriller is all sorts of excellent. We follow two LA cops (Jake Gyllenhaal and Michael Peña) as they go about their work on the mean streets of the city, with Officer Taylor (Gyllenhaal) documenting it all via his handheld cam. LADIES CONFESS! TO OUR SECRETARY!

Racy revelations from our female readers!

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'I screamed my lungs out!'

DURING LAST year's trip to Ibiza, a bloke invited me on his speedboat. Once we were in the middle of the sea, we went for a dip. As we climbed back on board, he kissed me and my bikini somehow ended up on the floor! He laid me down on the wooden decking and eased his tongue into me – I was quivering instantly. Soon I was on top, riding his d*ck. We were so far from land that I screamed my lungs out, begging him to go deeper. I came hard and rolled off, exhausted. I got sunburn in places that have never seen the sun before!

Sal Essex

'We had office sex!'

MY BOYFRIEND and I work at the same sports store. Our boss is a real dragon, cutting breaks and going mental if anyone is late. One evening, when she was out for an hour, we decided to have sex in her office. I pulled my boyfriend in, shut the door and slid my hand around his rapidly growing manhood. After a quick play, he spun me around so I was over her desk. He moved my underwear to one side and eased himself in. As he hammered away, I played with my clit until I came as silently as possible. We raced to get dressed and be back on the shop floor before anyone noticed. Now, whenever anyone gets taken into her office, we can't help laughing at the filthy goings on that took place there!

Marcia via email

'I dropped my towel'

A NEW assistant coach just joined my hockey club. He's a handsome guy but stern, making us work hard and rarely smiling. One day after training, I went for a run around the field. As I walked back to the club, I ran into the new coach and, with a cheeky look, he told me to join him in a hot shower. I thought he was joking until I heard the shower running and saw the door unlocked. He grinned as I stepped inside and dropped my towel. I took him deep into my mouth as I slid my fingers between my legs and rubbed slowly. I was dying to have him inside me, but there were noises outside so I made my escape. I'm hoping training next week will be just as fun!

'I ground up against him'

LAST NEW Year's Eve, I was out clubbing and I got chatting with a sexy lad. After lots of flirting, he started to kiss me and I responded eagerly. I reached for his stiffy, slowly rubbing it through his jeans. To be a tease, I left him hard and went off to dance with my friends. He found me on the dancefloor and we started grinding against each other. After half an hour, we couldn't take any more so we left and made our way to the beach. I started to rub him again and slowly made my way inside his jeans. He began rubbing my clit and playing with my boobs. We both came then went back to the club to keep dancing. We never spoke again and left separately, but I see him regularly in town and still get turned on thinking about our spontaneous night!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Ann Denise

24 Manchester

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"At the cinema! The Dark Knight Rises was boring me, so we decided to make it more interesting. I have to say, popcorn in your bra is uncomfortable, though!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"Switching positions. I get bored easily and like to switch so many times that we start on the bed and end up on the other side of the room."

3 What really turns you on?

"I like a man who takes control. There's nothing worse than a boy who doesn't know what he's doing in the bedroom."

4 What's your favourite position?

"Doggy style is my fave. It feels so dirty! I love being on top, but it hurts my legs because I'm only little."

5 Is it better to give or receive?

"Well, I definitely wouldn't give without receiving! It doesn't always have to be at the same time, but you have to want to give back too, or I'll get bored."

6 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?

"Role play. I've heard that celebs do it to spice up their love lives. You must be bored with a person if you have to do that every time, though."

7 Ever got it on with another girl?

"I've kissed girls on nights out but haven't had any real lesbian action. Maybe I just haven't met the right girl."

8 What's your sexy outfit of choice?

"I have a PVC devil's outfit that I bought for Halloween but I ended up not wearing it. It's in my cupboard, waiting to be played with."

9 Have you ever made a sex tape?

"No! And that has to change! I'd have to get drunk first, though. A guy did once record the noises we made having sex on his phone."

10 What's the rudest thing you've done?

"I used to hold lots of Ann Summers parties, get drunk with the girls and do naughty things. We called guys saying dirty stuff, and knocked on doors wearing just our underwear!"

"Doggy style is my fave. It feels so dirty!"

WORLD CUP EXCLUSIVE!

Joe Hart: 'England are expected to win every game!'

The brilliant keeper on handling criticism, staying sane and becoming the best!

➔ Hi Joe! How's the mood in the camp ahead of these World Cup qualifiers against San Marino and group leaders Montenegro?

We're in a good place. We have plans for each game and are executing them well. The lads feel confident without being too arrogant or anything.

What particular qualities does this squad have?

There's a good mix of experience and youth in the squad and I hope that will stand us in good stead. We need to be a team of winners without ever taking anything for granted.

You say you're lucky to be a footballer. Is that the kind of mentality you appreciate?

I've been given some great opportunities as a player and I appreciate what I have both on and off the pitch. It came with a lot of hard work, yeah, but I know all the good things could just stop if I ever get complacent.

NO.1 FOR ENGLAND!

Joe's firmly established as England's first-choice keeper. He's racked up 28 caps since his 2008 debut.

Are you happy with what you've achieved in your career so far?

My goal was always to play for Man City and England and thankfully it's happened, but it's certainly not a case of "job done". It actually means you have to work harder to stay in those positions.

What keeps you grounded?

I'm the same bloke I always was. I have the same friends, the same family. I'm not special just because I'm a footballer. Simple, really.

You've had some criticism this year. How do you react to that?

I just get on with it. Criticism doesn't get to me, I promise you. I've been lucky enough to receive plaudits in the past and it's all the same to me. No one is more critical of themselves than me. One thing I learned very quickly as a goalkeeper is that you can go from a hero to a clown in a matter of seconds!

Does conceding goals put you in a bad mood?

Of course I hate conceding goals, but you must have perspective. I play against some of the best attacking players in the world, whether it's in the Premier League or for England, so naturally I'm going to let in some goals.

Do you ever dwell on it?

If you obsessed about each one, it'd drive you round the bend! It's physically impossible to stop everything and, yes, sometimes you'll make mistakes. We're all human.

Can you improve as a keeper?

Always. I genuinely think I've got a long way to go – I should get better and better if I put the work in. I set myself no limits on what I can achieve. As I keep saying, I'm fortunate in what I do so I'd be an idiot if I didn't squeeze every last thing out of my opportunities.

Can England ever win a major tournament again?

I'm not going to sit here and say, "Yep, we're gonna win this or that". England are expected to win every game – it goes with the territory – yet the reality is there are a hell of a lot of good teams out there.

How can England reach the standard expected of them?

What we can do is keep progressing as we are. I think we've seen a real improvement in recent times and hopefully that will take us far in tournaments. I'm a fan myself, so I understand the passion of the supporters. It's our job to try to put a smile on their faces.

Do you think you could be the keeper to finally break the England penalty shootout curse in a major tournament?

I hope it doesn't come to that. I'd prefer it if we won games outright, two, three, four-nil! But if I'm called upon, I'll relish it. I always fancy myself in penalty shoot-outs. You have to think you'll save everything. It's my job, after all.

Thanks, Joe! Finally, do you get the same buzz playing for England as ever?

Definitely. I came into the England set-up in a bit of a rush and it was obviously all new and exciting. But I can honestly say pulling on that shirt is still a thrill. You're representing your country and also your family and friends. I won't ever get bored of that feeling!

- England vs San Marino is on Friday 22 March on ITV/HD at 7.30pm. Montenegro vs England is on Tuesday 26 March on ITV/HD at 7.30pm.

WORLD CUP 1994 QUALIFIER

England 6 San Marino 0
Wembley, 17 Feb 1993

The 1994 World Cup qualifier saw England skipper David Platt scoring four goals. It would have been five but he also missed a penalty. Les Ferdinand and Carlton Palmer bagged the others.

WORLD CUP 1994 QUALIFIER

San Marino 1 England 7
Bologna, 17 Nov 1993

England needed to win by seven and hope Poland didn't lose to Holland to qualify for World Cup USA. San Marino scored after 8.33 seconds. Manager Graham Taylor resigned six days later.

EURO 2012 QUALIFIER

England 0 Montenegro 0
Wembley, 12 Oct 2010

Fabio Capello's England drew their first blank at the new Wembley on a night when Bolton's Kevin Davies won his first (and only) England cap. It could've been worse: Montenegro hit the crossbar with seven minutes left.

EURO 2012 QUALIFIER

Montenegro 2 England 2
Podgorica, 7 Oct 2011

Goals from Ashley Young and Darren Bent got England the draw that saw them qualify for Euro 2012. The night was soured by Wayne Rooney's red card. It meant he was suspended for the first two games of Euro 2012.

WORLD CUP 2014 QUALIFIER

England 5 San Marino 0
Wembley, 12 Oct 2012

Man United's Wayne Rooney and Danny Welbeck bagged two each with Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain getting the fifth. A comfortable – though hardly unexpected – win for Roy Hodgson's men.

Funny footy endorsements!

The world's richest players are ready to flog any old stuff for a stash of cash!

LAST WEEK, Goal.com revealed the 50 wealthiest footballers in the world, with David Beckham, Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo topping the list. Forget their not exactly tiny wages, the real route to big bucks is endorsements. And some players will flog almost anything for cash...

PETR CECH No 32 £20m
No, not Rafa Benitez's genius new plan to stop Chelsea leaking goals, this is a 60 metre tall Cech promoting Adidas on a ferris wheel in Vienna. As you do.

LIONEL MESSI No 2 – £115.5m
Here's Lionel promoting Pepsi in China, no doubt thinking, "I may be destined for greatness and vast wealth, but I'll never live down this bloody oufit."

NICOLAS ANELKA No 27 £21.5m
In 2007, French fast-food chain Quick gave the world the Anelka Burger. Apparently it was irresistible at first, but left a bad taste after a while.

CRISTIANO RONALDO No 3 – £112m
Cristiano looks incapable of making errors of judgement on the pitch. Off it? This 2011 Armani underwear shoot answers that question. The big ponce.

"Taxi! I need to get back to west London, sharpish!"

Rafa needs to apologise to Fergie!

Chelsea boss should have swallowed his pride over 'facts'!

ALEX FERGUSON and Rafa Benitez will never like each other, that's for sure. When Rafa came out with a statement in 2009 when he was at Liverpool about Ferguson getting help from the Premier League and the referees' association, the only way he could have put that right would be by going on the telly and saying, "When I made that statement, I was totally out of order." If he'd done that I'm sure Fergie would have offered him the hand of friendship, but he didn't.

So, there's a history. It's not like Ferguson lost a match and because of a performance doesn't want to shake the opposition manager's hand – that would be out of order. But after Benitez made that statement, it caused a rift that's probably never going to be healed.

Fergie's in a position where he doesn't need Benitez, so I think refusing to shake his hand was him letting him know that he's not happy with what he did and how he did it.

People say it's bad for the game, but it's not – these are the things we're all talking about! It's part and parcel of the game.

"I'm going to hold my breath until you give me my job back!"

McDermott sacking's very harsh!

BRIAN MCDERMOTT was a victim of his own success. Reading's run to get to the Premier League last season was incredible and they probably got there a bit before they were ready.

If the new owner had given McDermott £30m or £40m and said, "Keep us in the Premier League," you could justify the sacking, but he had £10m to spend and had to look for Championship players who he hoped would be good enough.

The chairman's looking for a quick fix, but it very rarely works because the new manager won't be able to bring in two or three new players.

McDermott's given Reading more than they've given him – it's a very harsh sacking.

Roy had to pick Rio!

ENGLAND WILL win their upcoming World Cup qualifiers against San Marino and Montenegro, and thankfully Roy Hodgson has selected Rio Ferdinand in his squad for those games. Roy hasn't got too many options at the back and Rio never said he didn't want to play for England any more. Hodgson's made it clear by not selecting him before that Rio's not going to be first choice, but he's still one of the best defenders in the world – when Man United played Real Madrid the other week, Real didn't have a kick until Nani was sent off. Much of that was down to Rio at the back.

James DeGale: 'I'm married to boxing!'

Ahead of his title defence against Alexander Brand, "Chunky" talks to Nuts!

INTERVIEW: PETE CASHMORE PHOTOS: ACTION IMAGES

Hi James! Your opponent for your WBC Silver super middleweight title defence got switched a few weeks ago. Has that affected preparation?
No, my coach Jim McDonnell and I have everything covered. We should be fine.

What can you tell us about Alexander Brand, the guy who is replacing Pablo Farias?
He's a world-class fighter, ranked tenth in the world by the WBC. He has a very good amateur record – out of 437 fights he only lost 20, and as a pro his record is 19-1 with 15 knockouts so he can bang a bit! He's dangerous.

You obviously prepared tactics for Farias, so does that all have to change now?
Yes. But luckily, Farias and Brand are similar kinds of fighters. They're both stocky, and like coming forward, so the plan won't change much.

So what's next after this fight?
I want to keep on being busy, progressing, winning and looking good while doing it!

Which British fighters do you rate at the moment?
At super middleweight, it's just me and Carl Froch, to be honest. Otherwise I like Tony Bellew and Frankie Gavin. There are lots of good fighters out there. British boxing is booming at the moment!

Do you ever use your MBE to get preferential treatment in nightclubs and stuff?
Ha-ha! No, I don't. It's an honour and a privilege just to have those three letters after my name.

Are there any things you do in training that our readers could try out in their work-outs?
We do a lot of track work. I love sparring and being in the gym, but the track is the worst thing about my training regime. I have to do ten 400m runs, all in under 75 seconds, with a minute's rest between each lap. It sounds easy, but when you do it, it's proper hard!

When the fight is over, what treats do you allow yourself?
After a fight and being in a training camp for eight or ten weeks, I just like being a normal 27-year old bloke. I go out partying and socialising with my friends, and eat what I want for ten days before hitting the gym again!

Is there a Mrs Chunky?
No. I have lady friends, but that's it. Women are hard work, you know? Right now I'm married to boxing!
